PICK JURY AND THE R FOR TRIAL OF FUREY PAL OF WIDOW SEIZED

West End Beauty Accused of Killing Brother-in-Law in Row Over "Sheik"

The task of selecting a jury to serve at the trial of Mrs. Theresa Marangi and Ignazio Carluccio for the murder of Leo Marangi started today. The trial is before Judge Quinn and the work of picking the jury was expected to consume the remainder of the day.

Mrs. Marangi and Carluccio are called by court officials "the most attractive couple to be tried for murder in Massachusetts."

When the first investigation of the Marangi killing was made, Mrs. Theresa Marangi was charged with murder, but this was declared to be an error. She was released, and shortly thereafter a secret indictment of murder in the first degree was returned.

Frank Marangi, husband of Theresa, was murdered in Parkman street, in the gang feud that had pursued Leo Marangi up to the very minute of his death. The young widow of Frank, one of the prettiest girls in the Italian colony—a blonde, rare among Italians—had been raised with Ignazio Carluccio, known as "The Sheik of the North End," on a statutory charge.

Accompanied by his son Leo, Jr., Leo Marangi went to his sister-in-law to regenerate with her for the degree of his brother's estate. As he started to enter the apartment, according to the story of young Leo, the door opened and two shots pierced the head of the older Marangi. The man had protected himself by putting on a steel vest, but his murderer was apparently aware of this, and shot at the head. Carluccio was indicted openly, but the indictment of Mrs. Marangi was a secret one, followed by her arrest.

OFFICIALS OF CITY AROUSED

Dr. Mahoney Declares Law is Needed to Stop Sale of Dangerous Fixtures

Cheap and deficient gas fixtures exact a large toll of death each year in Boston.

Last year there were 114 deaths in Greater Boston from gas poisoning. Of these, 61 were suicides. Of the other 53 were "accidental," and most of these were due to defective fixtures.

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, commissioner of health, building, a commissioner, and James W. Flynn, supervisor of gas fitting inspectors, joined in denouncing the cheap fixtures.

"Legislative action is needed to take these fixtures off the counters of the stores," Dr. F. X. Mahoney said. "These cheap fixtures are not of standard quality and which have not been inspected by proper authorities are jeopardizing the lives of thousands of our residents today," declared Dr. Mahoney.

"The menace has become so acute that Building Commissioner Mahoney and I recently conferred with the Public Utilities Commission to secure legislative action. We want all fixtures standardized and, in addition, we want all gas fitters in the State licensed."

Building Commissioner Mahoney scored the dealers in Boston who have declined to take these defective fixtures from stock, even after the danger had been pointed out to them. He said: "The larger stores have co-operated with us to the extent of taking these fixtures from their counters, small dealers, with their eyes on the almighty dollar, have paid no attention to the matter. They say 'there is no law against selling them,' which is true, and so they keep on selling them."

TUBING IS MENACE.

Figures in the office of vital statistics at City Hall show that twenty-seven deaths occurred in 1922 due directly to defective gas fittings. The tubing so commonly in use caused twelve of this number.

Superior Flynn pointed out the danger of this tubing.

"The tubing sold at low price is a real menace to life. It will not resist pressure of air or gas, and it is liable to burst. It should resist a pressure of 75 pounds to the square inch and a four-inch pull of 40 pounds to the square inch."

Therefore, folks be sure to clip your coupons and hurry in to get yours. This sale may not continue much longer and so play safe. Get right in at once.

EVERYONE KNOWS OF THE VALUE OF THESE LITTLE HANDY BAGS. Just think! They can serve as a purse, handkerchief or bundle bag.

CHURCHES ASK FOR PARLEY TO SAVE WORLD

Washington, Feb. 27.—Expressing fear that the world is drifting toward war, economic ruin and moral disaster, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, today addressed a message to the 160,000 Protestant churches of thirty communities making up its membership, urging them to call upon the government to adopt a policy of cooperation with foreign nations and take a larger part in international problems.

Forcing an "eclipse of civilization for centuries" unless America acts, and condemning the policy of isolation, the administrative committee of the council demanded the government call an international conference to discuss Europe's troubles.

"In putting a veto for a conference the churches believe the United States should declare its readiness to make sacrifices in the matter of debts in order to bring about present peace," a statement issued by the council said, pointing out America's naval sacrifice in the Washington Conference.

"Future of diplomats and financial trust, the church council declared, factory settlement constitutes a direct challenge to the Christian church."

ACCO EATING FRUITS AND CANDY

Paula Bacon, convicted with Barbara Vassetti of the killing of a master and his guard at South street three years ago and awaiting sentence, perished today in prison jail in his refusal to eat any food.

Serial Bacon, however, asserted a Bacon was not on a hunger strike, as declared by the Suffolk District Court, but that he was eating regularly his candy and other food brought in by his wife and friends.

This isn't necessarily due to the Ruhr invasion. Russia owes French bondholders some thirty million gold francs which she does not intend to pay. And Russia probably doesn't like the French style of collecting as shown in the Ruhr.

ABANDON SHIP IN SINKING CONDITION

The Norwegian freight steamer Storaker, which left New York February 14 for Christiania, Norway, with a general cargo, has been abandoned in sinking condition in the North Atlantic shipping lane off Newfoundland and is a menace to navigation, according to wireless warning broadcasted today by the passenger liner George Washington. The crew is believed to have been saved.

The warning, accompanied by request that all vessels be notified, was picked up at Boston.

An earlier wireless from the steamship Canadiana, Boston, relayed through Halifax, N. S., said that the Storaker was in distress with eleven feet of water in her fore-hold but that the steamship City of Flint was standing by.

The presence of the City of Flint near the Storaker gave him to believe that the George Washington's message came, that the Storaker's crew had been taken off, but no specific mention of that was made in the message from the Canadiana.

The position of the Storaker in the first wireless was given as 43° 37' north latitude, 46° 40' west longitude. The position of the abandoned Storaker, when noted by the Canadiana, had changed to 44° 10' north latitude, 43° 22' west longitude.

U. S. AUTO INTERESTS MOVE TO SLASH BRITISH RUBBER MONOPOLY

WILL DEVELOP PLANTATIONS IN THE PHILIPPINES

Washington, Feb. 27.—Determined to break the British rubber monopoly, which will cost the American public more than $200,000,000 this year, 200 leading automobile and tire manufacturers met in Washington today to lay the groundwork of a campaign to shift the crude rubber production of the world from control of British to American interests.

American-backed rubber plantations in the Philippines and in South America is the answer the manufacturers hope to make to England's restriction of production and exportation of rubber, which bounced the price from thirteen to forty cents a pound in four months.

A handful of capitalists in Great Britain control 85 per cent. of the world's crude rubber production, Harvard University, promoter of the conference, said today.

"We have with the co-operation of English, French and Italian tire producers to prove to the British government its restriction act is inept, unwise and uneconomical and uncalculated for."

"We want that act repealed. British plantations owners were making a liberal profit before the war and it is time to stop it."

This conference wants to show the American government the ability of securing an American outlet to invest in rubber plantations in the Philippines and South America. The southern continent, producing crude rubber on a big scale, would find a ready market at its front door.

Automobile manufacturers pointed out the more than 100 per cent. to increase in rubber costs may result in a big curtailment of tire and motor

Poverty Ball Tonight to Draw Younger Society Set, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE E. Schier Watches (Barbara Hinkley) of Beacon street have joined the fairly large Boston colony at Bermuda. Sailing from New York on the same boat with Mr. and Mrs. Welch were the H. Nelson Sisters (Martha Lyon) of New York, the former ones of Boston.

Following the wedding of the sisters—celebrated over a year ago in France at Versailles—they started on a honeymoon around the world. During their stay in India the bride was stricken with smallpox, but was so very fortunate as to survive the plague without even a lingering scar. Mrs. Mabel Hunt Slater, her mother-in-law, who spends most of her time in New York now, has done quite a bit of entertaining in Gotham for the young Slaters during the past season.

Speaking of Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson concluded their sojourn there some time ago, and are now covering their home in Washington for the Spring season. The Andersons made a very long Summer-Fall-Winter stay of it at "Wald," their magnificent Brookline estate, remaining away from their home in Gotham for the first time in an unusually long time because of the ill health of Mrs. Anderson's mother, Mrs. George Hamilton Perkins, of Commonwealth avenue.

I SUPPOSE that many of the younger set will go on tonight from the Ellis Memorial Stating Car at the Arena to the Hundred Club's annual poverty ball at the Copley-Plaza. A great deal has already been written and said about the program which Miss Mabel Penno and her committee have arranged for the carnival, and there's bound to be a large attendance. Last year the poverty ball proved to be a most amusing affair, and a goodly crowd is assured for tonight when Mrs. Henry B. Spague will receive.

MEMBERS of the Harvard Club of London gave a dinner at Claridge's in honor of President A. Lawrence Lowell after their arrival from Boston. Mr. Lowell ever since their arrival from Boston at the British capital has been greeted from all sides by American friends.

FAVORS UNIFORM DIVORCE LAW

New York, Feb. 27.—Rachel Crothers, well known playwright, strongly favors a national divorce law, as she makes clear in the following letter to the editor of the American.

"Of course I am in favor of a national divorce law. The conditions which make divorce necessary are not caused by the State, but by family. It is rather ridiculous that by crossing Rachel Crothers an imaginary line on the map people can acquire or lose grounds for a divorce, while the family condition remains the same."

"Incompatibility, the most important cause for divorce, is recognized in some states and should be in all. Sincerely yours, 'RACHEL CROTHERS.'"

STARVATION IN RUSSIA CURES HAYWOOD

Moscow, Feb. 27 (by International News Service).—"Big Bill" Haywood, former leader of the I. W. W. in the United States and who was suffering from diabetes when he fled from America with a twenty-year jail sentence hanging over his head, has been completely cured by the "starvation diet" imposed by the Russian food shortage, he told International News Service today.

"For nearly a year I lived on black bread and then cabbage soup," he said.

"My health is better now than it has been for many years."

Haywood was found in Moscow's finest hotel "sticking up" drinks for friends. Within less than an hour the firsts called.

The first was a messenger with a package of books. They had come from Siberia and were intended for Upton Sinclair. The messenger had helped himself to a cigar as he departed.

Albert Rhyne Williams called to collect a paltry loan of 1,000,000,000 roubles (which in the old days would have been $200,000,000).

"Conditions in Russia are getting better and food is getting more plentiful," said Haywood. "I believe that by next autumn Russia will be back on her feet. The Soviet is unshaking industry as rapidly as possible."

Tarborough, N. S., Feb. 27.—Captain Kenney of the government steamer Aberdeen has brought word of the plight of Mrs. Harry Greenwood, wife of the lighthousekeeper on Bon Portage Island. For five weeks while her husband was ill on the mainland she remained on duty at the lighthouse, unable to get any word from him.

At last, unable to stand the suspense, the lighthouse signals. The Aberdeen went out and after a two-day fight with the ice got a boat ashore with Mrs. Greenwood, who found her husband in a critical condition.

EX-COP WINS HUB HEIRESS BY MAIL

MISS ROSAMOND BRADLEY

HUB HEIRESS TO BE BRIDE OF EX-COP

They met by mail when the beautiful Boston heiress had fallen in love with the ex-cop of the Boston Police. The romance is one of the most vivid which ever has featured Boston society.

Miss Bradley is heiress to many millions. For years she has been an untiring worker in the cause of humanity. She has followed her husband's philanthropic endeavor in many roles. As a missionary, a Red Cross nurse, a social service worker, she has labored zealously among those less fortunate than herself.

When Bradstreet returned from the war he did not resume his duty as a policeman in the South in 1919. He began work in Carleton, Ontario, and built for the future. He is described now as "in comfortable circumstances."

Face to face for the first time the couple came August last at the bride's crossing estate of Miss Bradley. The visitor from Canada was announced and was received. The meeting was not disappointing. A quiet chat, informal by nature, led to the knowledge that the two had each other through their long and busy correspondence. They talked of themselves and the future.

Former Senator Parkhurst Makes Strong Plea for Abandoning Charlestown Jail

The Charlestown State Prison was denounced as "a relic of barbarism, an inhuman lighthouse, which ought to be wiped off the surface of the earth," by former Senator Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester at a hearing today before the Legislative Committee on Public Institutions.

Mayor Curley appeared before the committee and asked that the new prison be established on the city's Long Island in Boston Harbor.

"W. Cameron Forbes investigated the prison for the Governor," said Mr. Parkhurst, "and he declared that the prison should be abandoned at the earliest opportunity. Why wait until 1924 when there will be more politics to the square acre than ever before in this State? It is impossible to negotiate constructively."

The lack of proper schoolroom facilities for prisoners at Charlestown is a criminal negligence on the part of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The ventilation is a horror, the feeding system is ancient and inadequate and the tools and equipment used in the prison shop would bankrupt a private business in three years."

SHADE AND WARD CLASH IN WELTERWEIGHT RING CLASSIC

SHADE BOUT S PRIZE FOR TONIGHT'S DOCTOR

By JACK CONWAY.
You will get another welterweight classic when Dave Shade and George Ward battle in a ten-round bout at the Arena A. C. on Mechanics Building tonight. The bout is part of an entertainment series being staged to determine which of our brave 145-pounders has the best right to venture forth in a title contest with youthful Mickey Walker.

There is intense interest in this evening's guard and as a result a capacity crowd will be on hand to witness the fight.

Shade or Ward?
Naturally that is the popular question of the day. Shade is a favorite with the boys who risk the odd cash on the result of fistic encounters. This, however, does not mean he will win.

Take a place at Ward's record.

The Newark wack is (twenty-two years old and as handsome as any movie slick) he has traded broods with Jack Britton, Mickey Walker, Joe Egan, Eddie Shavin and in other notable members of the welterweight division. And he has been very successful.

This handsome young man, who can knock 'em over with his looks or with his fists as suits his fancy, is credited with George Ward's victory.

In the active and up-to-date state of New Jersey there are many boxing fans who figure that Ward has the necessary ability to win over Ward. Of course the Ward supporters will admit that Smiling Mickey is capable of upsetting any youth he can hit with his punches. But they say that George is not the kind of young man who lingers in a spot where his rival can shoot punches. He keeps moving around in lively style and usually manages to outpoint the enemy.

Ward claims he has improved more than Shade during the past year and that as a result he should surge his way to victory.

Shade's last big fight was with Shavin. It is now a matter of ring history how the Leo Flynn entry crashed a close decision after a brilliant battle. Shade proved in his contest with Shavin that he is able to meet any man of his weight in the ring.

Shade is a better puncher than Ward, which is one of the reasons why he will win this p.m. He intends to carry the battle to close quarters where he believes his body blows will wear Ward down.

If Ward resorts to long range warfare, he will find that Shade is also quite an expert at this style of milking. Shade, however, prefers to get within the five foot zone when opposed by a warrior like Ward, who is blessed with a long left hand which lands with crushing effect.

The winner, very naturally, will be in a position to demand consideration from Mickey Walker.

Leo Flynn does not seem to think that Walker is particularly eager to collide with Shade. He points to the fact that Tex Rickard has been anxious to promote a Walker-Shade match for several months, but that the loss of the welterweight has not displayed any enthusiasm about meeting with the Californian.

The Flynn plan calls for Shade to win on all six of the welterweight bouts. In this way Leo believes that public opinion will eventually compel Walker to give Shade a bout.

Ward also is of the opinion that he will continue to have the opposition that he will be the fortunate young man to get the first shot at the championing in a decision bout.

Leo Flynn of Salt Lake City, the best fighter in the country, will have Newman Johnny Brown as an opponent in the semifinal of ten rounds. Flynn is now in his seventeenth year of age and if he continues to improve the way he has during the next six months it will not be long before he replaces Johnny Kilbane as the boss of the featherweight division.

Flynn is a faster boxer than Brown, but the latter is the better puncher of the two. Consequently the fans should witness a lively tilt.

There will also be a couple of elphs. Tom Corbally of Gloucester will meet Young Tiger of Boston, while Pat Debovo of Quincy will take punches in the general division of a young man who is eager to win ring fame under the name of "Young Comet."

In the merry language of Danny White:

"Where Did Jack Curley Get It?" Is Query of Fans

Jack Curley, deposed wrestling king, has decided to pass away his time with moving picture idols.

News dispatches from New York inform us that Valentino and his wife, Mrs. Winifred Hudnut Valentino, have signed a contract at $50,000 a week for a dance tour under the direction of the honorable and versatile Curley.

Which causes sport fans to ask:

"Where did Curley get the dough?"

Possibly by managing Wladok Zbyzsko, who recently gave Jack the air and signed with Jack Herman.

Then, again, Curley may have got his pile as a result of his efforts in promoting the Johnson-Willard bout or out of that little affair between Gohs and Hackenschmidt which was staged out in dear old Chicago some years ago.

The sport world grieves the passing of Curley from its midst much like one does when he hears that a coal baron is tossed from his well heated limousine into a snow bank.

Jack Conway Picks Shade and Paluso to Win Bout

After having cashed in on a winning parlay which he put over while enjoying winter sports, Jack Conway landed out the following "inside" dope:

"We like Dave Shade in the big welterweight classic at the Arena A. C. on Mechanics Building tonight. We realize, of course, that George Ward outpointed Mickey Walker in rather decisive style, but we think he will receive tougher opposition when he collides with the Leo Flynn entry."

"This looks forth as good a match as the Shade-Shavin affair and should produce all kinds of thrills."

SARAZEN ANSWERS CRITICS OF THE INTERLOCKING GRIP

By Gene Sarazen

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 27.—I have never declared that the interlocking grip is the best grip in golf. But I do insist it is as good as any other and that it is one of the most powerful I know of.

I think my record this year conclusively proves that the theory of the interlocking grip is as practical as any. It is not only a natural grip for me, but it is one which anybody—old or young—can use. Because some find it impractical does not prove it is incorrect.

I would like to be shown wherein the interlocking grip is wrong; also if my critics can prove that the over-lapping grip is better than the interlocking.

THE STORY TO DATE.

Prince Michael Fedor, a Russian of fabulous wealth, is at Monte Carlo while the Grand War is on. With him is his friend, Attilio Castro, and other acquaintances. He announces to the amusement of his hearers, that he is ruined. The Prince proposes that Castro and a few of their friends live together with the proviso that no woman shall enter their lives. They will be known as "The Enemies of Women." Castro tells the Prince he has seen the Duchess de Delille. She calls at the Villa Strens and tells the Prince to finance her gambling system.

THEY both laughed at the idea of this loan. The thought of the ridiculousness of being seen unexpectedly poor came over them. They felt drawn together by a solidarity of misfortune; they had suddenly met like brother and sister fallen on the heights of a mountain peak, on the heights of which they had previously avoided each other, rudely chafing in uncontrollable hostility.

At present Michael felt attracted to Alicia for a reason that was absolutely novel. From this youth he had hated the daughter of Dona Mercedes for her pride, and for the air of overwhelming superiority which maintained even in those moments of love when nearly every woman freely bumbles herself to take shelter in a man's arms like a happy slave. She could give herself only with a manner of haughty condescension much as a goddess might come to a poor mortal.

And now, seeing her come to him thus simply to entreat his aid, without the usual humiliations, hating her fear with friendly meriment, desirous of forgetting the past, he felt all his old antipathy melt away.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

In many households where it is the custom to serve bacon for breakfast, bacon fat accumulates. This fat may be clarified and used as shortening in making biscuits and piecrust.

Old chamois leather gloves make dainty shoes for the tiny baby. Wipe them round with bright colored wool. Any old bits can be saved for repairing better gloves.

THE ENEMIES OF WOMEN

By BLASCO IBÁÑEZ

"Enemies of Women," in the dining room, Lord Lewis, one of a distinguished English gentleman, was making in the trunk of the old coat the first to appear had made him as sheepishly obedient as a prior breaking the rule of the monastery to receive a guest.

ROMANCES OF ROYALTY

By Barbara Joyce

The Story of Francis Joseph and Frau Schrat.

FUTURE ages will be thrilled by a romance of not so long ago—that of Francis Joseph of Austria and Frau Schrat. Not only because of his colorful anti-climax the most romantically picturesque of all the imperial houses of Europe, but because the same hour that saw the decline of their star of love, witnessed the fall of the star of the House of Hapsburg.

Back in 1840 one of the young Emperor's indiscretions reached its climax in the departure of Empress Elisabeth—his first wife. Finally persuaded by his repentance she returned upon her own terms. She should be free to wander whither her fancy led; he was not again to interfere the dignity of the House of Hapsburg.

It was an admirable arrangement for the Emperor, but for the Emperor, in whose veins coursed the blood of the Hapsburgs—that was different. As Byron expressed it, he "was sent beyond the usual terms of that swarming verb."

The Emperor, plying his loneliness, and to assure herself greater freedom, created a position at court for Frau Schrat, a popular actress.

Thereafter, the backbiting members of the imperial family who had reviled and scorned her with the splendor of court life to find love with her own way, were pursued with Olympian thunder from the throne. Those were guilty of insolence and they called the Emperor "Her Schrat!"

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

Be Sure to Read Them to Your Children

By Blanche Silver

MRS. TREE-TOAD sat at long table watching Mrs. Woodpecker working on a hole she was making in the trunk of the old coat.

There, there," croaked Mrs. Tree-toad, "don't let her prattle change your mind. She certainly is a pest. She won't bring it out of her own, but runs around and throws her eggs into some one's nest. But I would—"

"Here Mrs. Tree-toad was interrupted by a flutter of wings, and Mrs. Woodpecker flew down. "Well, well, did you think I'd get hungry. Then I fly away in search of food, while she condescends to feed me!"

"Building Your House." As a big tree. I thought I'd tell you before you break your bill on the best plan. "That's mighty kind of you, I'm sure," replied Mrs. Woodpecker. "But it happens, I'm sure, in search of food. I'm trying to build my house."

DO YOU KNOW THAT— Only one man in 500 is over six feet in height. Red-haired persons are said to be less subject to badness than those which had been filled with true blood. Using the Serapeva sawdust as an excuse to declare war against Berlin, the Emperor of his pen, which signed the death warrant of the dual monarchy, was written his name with the name of William II. on the page of history in letters of blood.

FURNITURE IN HOME

By Marian Moore

WHEN the winter-weary housewife looks around for something springlike to freshen up the living room, the chances are that she will add a piece or two of red or three furniture for nothing less than an air of sunny cheerfulness.

Red furniture may be decorated in many ways to harmonize with the prevailing color scheme, and since it comes with such a wide range of upholstery colors, and incidentally at moderate prices, any home owner may prefer it.

Red Furniture in Living Room. The items in the picture are of similar crests, and a narrow strip of it, edged with gray braid, forms the table runner. The window draperies combine blue art silk underpinnings and white net curtains.

Another fine story tomorrow. The world-weary old monarch must have welcomed death as a release from his troubled soul. In his eighty-eight year he died November 21, 1918.

The Smithy of Creation

TAKE a large opera glass or a small telescope and look at the little speck directly under Orion's Belt. It is a most dramatically interesting spot, for there cosmic forces are forging new suns. It is the celebrated Orion Nebula.

A Russian Prince of Fabulous Wealth and Some Friends Bind Themselves to Bar All Women From Lives

was the one comment. The amusing part of it for Michael was the fact that Lewis also figured among the masters who knew how to play, and very one of them had, like those who were "ignorant."

"The Prince looked at Castro once more as though it a clever enemy who is hiding his thoughts. Then he ventured to ask a question."

Castro intervened as though desiring that the conversation go no further. "What do you say to dropping in at the Casino?" he suggested.

They All Agree And all of them agreed to the proposal. The Prince spent the remainder of the afternoon waiting for the Casino, and looking at the sunset. Finally, he sat down in the hall under a small shaded floor lamp to read.

ORIGIN OF COMETS

By GARRETT P. SERVIS

PROFESSOR STROMGREN, a royal astronomer for Denmark, as a result of more than twenty years of special study, affirms that all comets originated in the nebula out of which the sun and his planets were formed.

But the new view would strip comets of this kind of prestige. French grey velvet, velvet curtains, and other things, are not so much foreign wanderers around the planetary system, a kind of semi-cosmos, as special comets, occasionally privileged to visit the solar metropolis, and carry a tail as a symbol of respectation to the sun.

That St. Louis, Feb. 27.—With the Kilby back as an issue, St. Louis today voted in the polls to nominate two candidates for the Mayoralty, and eight for City Commissioners. The election will be April 2, at which a Mayor and four Commissioners will be chosen from today's nominees.

The Klan is said to have induced candidates for the Mayoralty and four for Commissioners after exacting pledges that none but Klansmen and Protestants be appointed to office.

The issue was intensified with announcement of Chief of Police McNamara that Benjamin O. Morrow, one of three men arrested on charges of distributing anonymous pamphlets to the Klan.

The Klansmen urged defeat of eighteen candidates who were said to be Catholics or to have Catholic sympathies.

FORCED TO GIRL'S PARDON

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 27.—Warrants have been issued for J. E. Fincher, Emory University student; "Puh" McWhorter and Claire Frye, Georgia Tech football stars, and Henry Lyons, young chairman, at the instance of Carl Davis.

He charges that the four men took him from the Y. M. C. A. early Saturday morning, and after severely beating him, forced him to kneel in apology before a well-known society girl for an alleged insult.

Davis reported to the police that the four men accused him of insulting the young woman at a dance. He denied this accusation, admitting, however, that during the dance he uttered an oath, which he said, however, was not directed at the young woman.

URGES THAT EASTER BE A FIXED DATE

London, Feb. 27.—Lord Dabchord, president of the British Imperial Council of Commerce, has come to Rome in March to propose to the congress of the International Chambers of Commerce a resolution to fix Easter as a fixed date, suggesting the second Sunday in April as a permanent Easter day.

Lord Dabchord said that the success of his proposal depended largely upon the views of the Holy See. His plan is supported by a large number of influential commercial organizations in Great Britain.

How Religion Helps Health

Rules for Fasting, Praying—All Hygienic

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

As you study earth's various religions you find that, apparently many regulations merely religious or without apparent motive, are based upon excellent material and mechanical as well as religious reasons.

For instance, if you are shocked by the theory which would exclude a child from Paradise for no fault of its own because it was not baptized, remember that the original idea was protection of the children.

When Christianity started it was legal to expose newborn children in the public square to be devoured by dogs or brought up as slaves by strangers.

Christianity would not allow that, and compelling the mothers to bring the children to be baptized on pain of punishment hereafter for themselves made it possible to keep track of the children. Once baptized they were safe from exposure. That saved many thousands of young lives. There is no doubt about that, whatever your private opinion may be on what happens to the child that dies in infancy.

You find in nearly all religions some rule that commands fasting. Such regulations were obeyed by primitive people because they were told that it was the will of Heaven that they should fast. If they had been merely told that it was GOOD FOR THEM, an excellent thing, at Ramadan, for instance, to go for a certain length of time without food, they would have paid no attention to that. But the order of Allah received through Mohammed convinced them. Therefore once in a while the Mohammedan gives his stomach a complete rest and it is the better for it.

So in India you find Buddha giving his body to be eaten by a starving tiger when he perceived that she had no milk to give to her feeble little cubs.

But HE would not eat any meat. Three hundred million vegetarian Asiatics in India are controlled by a few meat-eating Englishmen thousands of miles away. The belief is that the order comes from above, and that may be so. But the certainty is that meat is a very poor diet in a tropical country and they are better off for leaving it alone, also.

In France the Academy of Medicine analyzes the rules for prayer given by Mohammed in the Koran—which, it is said, by the way, a certain Jew wrote for him.

The movements are described in detail. You must make an upward and downward movement of the arms. Then you must bend the trunk at the hips and the knees.

These movements are the EXPANSION OF THE CHEST. You must bend the body completely over, with the head down toward the ground. That stretches the spine, separates the congested vertebrae—free osteopathy.

The prayers are sung or intoned, first at a low whisper, gradually louder, thus developing the lungs.

Let us hope that every prayer offered to Allah was Mohammed by a good Mohammedan who had been a better man. But even if we believe that Mohammed was "a heathen in his blindness," we must congratulate him on the fact that the kind of praying that he ordered compels his follower to keep down the size of his stomach, develop the muscles of his neck, expand his chest and makes the man that prays healthier.

Even the great Moses himself perhaps would not have been so strict in his law if there had been no better man in the hot country in which he lived. Nobody would think of eating a lobster or a crab in a very hot country with no too-lose plumes. His rules undoubtedly increased the physical health of the Israelites.

Labor and National Guards

Union Leaders Should Remember That It Is the Professional Soldier Who Is Dangerous

Colonel Thomas F. Foley, commanding the 101st Infantry of the Massachusetts National Guard, declared that the labor unions are crippling the service of the organized militia by forbidding its members to join in time of peace.

It is difficult to believe that labor leaders can be so short-sighted. We must maintain a military force even in time of peace. Do you think that military service is the constabulary of professional soldiers or do they want it to be made up of their own kind, who cannot be used to violate the constitutional rights of citizens, who could not be used in a reactionary revolution?

Remember, it is the professional soldier always who is dangerous. The national soldier, the volunteer soldier, the soldier who comes from the people and goes back to the people, the soldier who is tried by the masses by every form of obligation and association is the soldier who can never be used to destroy liberty. Remember, that in the French Revolution it was the soldiers who were drawn from the people who stood by the people. It was the mercenary, the professional soldier, the Swiss guard, who stood by the King. In Rome the legions which were drawn from the people went back to the people and could never be used to destroy the liberties. It was the legions of professional soldiers, business it was to be soldiers and the Pretorian guards, trading army of professionals, which destroyed Roman liberty.

We must have a military force. If workmen will not join it then we give the reactionaries the excuse they are looking for, to fill up with professionals the State constabulary. They have already begun it, and the inability to fill the militia regiments will give them further excuse to increase this body of professionals.

The other day we called public attention to the very serious consequences which might follow the condemnation by labor leaders of workmen who entered our militia service. We pointed out the evils of the failure of workmen to join the militia. The State of Wisconsin has apparently been faced with the problem of continuing or abolishing the State militia. Senator La Follette, one of our country's greatest leaders, publicly urged the State to continue the militia, and in arguing for this non-professional force he used almost the same language which the Boston American used in protesting against the attempt by organized labor to keep workmen out of the Massachusetts militia.

Senator La Follette said for purpose.

To abolish the National Guard at this time would give the militarists of the nation an opportunity to urge an increase in our standing army and to augment our Federal expenditures for no purpose.

The people of Wisconsin may be confident that so long as the State is under progressive control our National Guard will be maintained to promote private interests at the expense of the public.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

MIT AND WEEZ

By Bruno Lessing.

AT an informal dinner recently it happened that a Frenchman and a German sat side by side. I was opposite them and was greatly amused by their conversation. They were sagaciously polite to each other and discussed international affairs without the slightest rancor.

Presently the German said: "If we go to smash, der great danger is dot der trouble world come out."

"Zal see der whole world," replied the Frenchman. "If an exaltation come, we must go west you."

After the dinner the Frenchman took me aside.

"Don't be speak so funny English," he asked, laughingly. "He always say 'mit' instead of 'wee'."

"I have been wondering a great deal since then if a lot of the argument that we get out of life is not based upon the difference between another person's 'mit' and our 'wee'."

Also, if a great many of the "wee" is right, in the realm of humor it makes but little difference. Get all the amusement out of life that you can, as long as you do not hurt another's feelings.

It is common natural to us to say "wee," we think, of course, "mit" and our "wee" is right. What we rarely stop to think about, however, is whether our "wee" is right. In the realm of humor it makes but little difference. Get all the amusement out of life that you can, as long as you do not hurt another's feelings.

In the realm of humor it makes but little difference. Get all the amusement out of life that you can, as long as you do not hurt another's feelings.

It is common natural to us to say "wee," we think, of course, "mit" and our "wee" is right. What we rarely stop to think about, however, is whether our "wee" is right. In the realm of humor it makes but little difference. Get all the amusement out of life that you can, as long as you do not hurt another's feelings.

Phelan's Alibi

Editor Boston American: I am sorry to hear that Mr. Phelan is a liar. I would seem that he has been deliberately planning the conditions that exist today, and had his alibi carefully prepared. The condemnation is all the greater.

The Queen said, "If they can't get coal, why don't they eat cake?" and Phelan's kindergarten to the people reads, "If they can't get coal, why don't they eat cake?" The committee tells you it doesn't want any back talk, either.

Phelan is only obeying those "higher ups" or he would not last as long as Wilson lasted after he raised Cox's banquet. Give us a picture of Governor Cox's cellar, including, of course, the coal bin, and that may shed light on the subject.

"Killing of Brave Men"

At a mass meeting of the representatives of 30,000 members of the Amalgamated American

Irish Societies of Massachusetts, held on Sunday, February 4, 1923, it was unanimously agreed that we extend to you our grateful appreciation for the space allotted in your editorial column to your issue of Saturday, February 3, 1923, on "The Killing of Brave Men."

The cowardly assassinations of the members of the Irish Republican Army, who were arrested and put in prison by the Irish Free State forces for nothing more than the possession of arms, has spelled the death knell of the Irish Free State.

The government of this so-called Free State in the persons of Healy, Cosgrave and Mulcahy has outdone the atrocities of the Black and Tan regime under Greenwood and McCredy one hundred fold.

The Irish Republican army are fighting the same fight as Washington and his followers fought to a successful issue, and will continue to do so until England and her agents clear out of Ireland.

HUMPHREY P. SULLIVAN, Secretary for the Committee.

Plaster Casts

Editor Helping Hand: So many have received blessings of a practical nature through your department that I am asking if someone has an encyclopedia or similar book of reference, even if out of date. I have plaster models, life size, of the head, foot and hand of a man that would be of use to some art student.

Has a Bathrobe

Editor Helping Hand: I have read of Mrs. C. A. who wants a bathrobe. I have one in good condition that I would be pleased to give her. In there is a pair of to-dancing or ballet slippers, size 4 1/2. A little girl friend of mine would appreciate them very much.

Said, Note—Mrs. C. A.'s address will be sent you.

Offers a Cape

Editor Helping Hand: I have a little cashmere cape that I would like to give to J. E. M. I have also a knitted shawl, a little sweater, and several other articles of clothing

WORDS FROM THE LIPS OF WISE MEN

THIS MIND is the proper judge of man.

It is easy to help him who is willing to be helped.

When a fellow's fed up with his work, you may be sure his work is fed up with him.

There are few defects in our nature so glaring that they cannot be veiled from observation by politeness and good breeding.

That man is to be accounted poor, of whatever rank he be, whose expenses exceed his resources—and no man is poor but he.

Some men are like half-bred horses which often grow worse in proportion as you feed and exercise them for improvement.

If the best man's faults were written on his forehead it would make him pull his hat over his eyes.

Where we cannot invent, we may at least improve—we may give somewhat of novelty to that which was old, condensation to that which was diffuse.

A man should live as a citizen of the world. He may have a preference for a particular quarter or square, or even alley in which he lives, but he should have a generous feeling for the welfare of the whole.

There is some help for all the defects of fortune, for if a man cannot attain to the length of his wishes, he may have his remedy by cutting them shorter.

History to Read

Editor Helping Hand: Being a shut-in, seventy-five years old, and wanting something to read, I would be grateful to have something in romance or history to read.

Baby Clothes

Editor Helping Hand: I haven't much to give, but I do think that if everybody looked over their old clothes they could spare. I have a few baby clothes for J. E. M. if she hasn't already been given them. I have a twelve-year-old boy's nackskin. I have several pairs of women's high-heeled shoes, size 4 and 4 1/2. I have a man's straw hat and a felt hat and two suit coats for a medium-sized man.

Ed. Note—Thank you. We echo your comments about the old clothes.

Total revenue per capita of the city of Boston in 1920 was 65.93, making it the second city in the country in this respect.

President a Bit Late With His Note

By Herbert Kaufman

THINGS were happening behind the scenes. Predicted, pamphlets are verified. Europe and America have been whispering on the cables.

The President's belated note lifts the curtain on at least one of secret diplomacy's stage settings.

Our objections to fuller participation in the activities of The Hague court are now accepted by the other guardians of that adopted child of the league.

If this country wishes to join the tribunal no judges will be appointed to any controversy until we have our say.

The United States is permitted membership without assuming the least legal relations to the league.

Congress is assured that we can hang our clothes on the international hickory limb and stay as far from troubled foreign waters as we please.

Mr. Harding feels that we should join at once. World peace requires American counsel and guidance. We may extend a helping hand without risk of finding a sword thrust in it. We can give advice and keep sovereignty inviolate. Everything is arranged, we want it.

Mr. Harding appeals late.

His request comes at a very unstrategic moment. Ship subsidy has weakened Presidential prestige. The opposition and the irreconcilables make no bones of their intention and ability to hold the fort through the rest of the session. Debate and filibustering will hold the matter over to next December.

Between now and then the President may invoke the power of public opinion. If the country is behind him the new Congress will be with him.

Premiers Have More Say Than Presidents

This situation emphasizes the difference between European and American systems.

Foreign Cabinets are almost invariably members of and work directly with Parliaments. The party in power is subject to a vote of confidence at any moment. But while in the saddle it will be practically unlimited. Premiers have far more say than Presidents, even while the tenure of that authority is never long assured.

Here we are more circumspect and our officials are more circumscribed.

On the other hand, the country is committed for inordinate periods to the personnel of administration and Congress.

Consequently, Mr. Harding and Mr. Hughes must postpone any hope of taking the ship abroad until the Senate is satisfied to concur.

Jefferson and His Cup of Tea

If we ever fully participate in a scheme to regulate world control, America will be severely hampered and prompt action in a crisis rendered practically impossible unless we abandon present procedure through jealous traditions.

Mr. Wilson's adventures abroad signally illustrate the point. The Senate's final judgment resolved his work in Europe to a futile gesture.

Nothing has so emphasized our constitutional intent both to localize American destiny and maintain original checks upon the Chief Executive.

Jefferson, full of French views, once questioned such supererogation, criticizing, particularly, the obstructive power vested in dual control.

"You, yourself," countered Washington, "have proved the excellence of the plan. You have turned your hot cup of tea into the saucer to get it cool. It is the same thing we desire in the two houses." He might well have included the White House.

What Are the Cables Whispering?

France and Belgium no longer pretend that the Ruhr invasion is an act of bailiffry. The seizure, in transit, of German funds is now followed by an open declaration of civil and political control of the Rhineland.

If we were among the arbiters at The Hague this afternoon, that would be one of the nice little questions before the gathering.

Poincaré means to have his pound of flesh at any cost to international comity.

Prophecy nor protest halt his course. He has established the law of possession. Fourteen points surrender to nine.

British labor nods disapproval and Bonar Law carefully measures his distance and meticulously avoids any move that may disturb the precarious balance of understanding between the powers.

Ambassador Harvey told a London audience that England can't get out of the "European mess" and that we shall probably have to get in.

The London observer feels that nothing but Anglo-American co-operation can save civilization, and calls attention to Stanley Baldwin's statement that England is taxed three times as heavily as France or America. Therefore, Great Britain must figure how much longer she can suffer a policy which limits the empire's manufactures and export.

Mr. Harding hasn't revealed just what the diplomatic cables are whispering about these developments.

The Indiscretions of Harvey, Zita and Grant

Mr. Harvey warns us that his maneuvers will tell all about the British Debt settlement. Very interesting news and very timely. Quite a shock to learn that we are not fully informed. If there are any missing details concerning that several billion-dollar transaction his hundred and ten million employees on this side are entitled to have them before the final arrangements are concluded.

Vienna is anxious to close a sad chapter, too. Zita's persistence in the matter of the Austrian throne disturbs the new republic, which has asked Count Apponyi to confer with the royal exile and impress upon her the several consequences of making her head the nucleus of further trouble in a beggared, resourceless land.

There have been significant happenings of the past few hours.
